ABOUT ME¹

Quality time with those I love has always been a priority - this is how I picked up horseback riding with my mom, painting with my dad and photography with my son. As a personal hobby, I picked up Orangetheory fitness workouts in 2016, after committing help my friend lose over 20 pounds. After my friend reach her goal, these workouts became my passion - both because they push my limits and make me feel inspired².

² With career shifters in mind (alternative):

I have always been a curious and enthusiastic individual. As an accounting major, I have always been curious how I can integrate IT with my day to day activities and improve the overall productivity and efficiency of how I do my work. I started out with small scripts to help automate my work, and then eventually made my way to creating small applications to help my colleagues as well
